November Field Trip

The November Field Trip was taken to Rodeo Lagoon, Marin County, on Sunday, November 14, 1948. The members and guests gathered at the north approach of the Golden Gate Bridge and in a body drove to the Military Reservation and through the tunnel. At the west end of the tunnel the cars were parked and the trip started.

There were too many present for one group so three groups were formed and under very competent leaders proceeded down the valley. One group took the north side of the valley, another took the south side while the third covered most of the middle of the valley. The three main groups at times split into smaller groups so the entire valley was very well covered. When the lagoon was reached the groups all came together and later had lunch on the beach by a drift-wood fire.

The weather was fine for birding, the sky being overcast most of the time, no fog, and cool enough not to get overheated. The air was so clear that the Farallone Islands could be seen with the naked eye. After lunch the sun did shine awhile and it became quite warm.

Due to the many groups covering the ground so thoroughly and the many kinds of habitat, a large number of birds were seen. The habitats included dry hillsides, fresh water marshes, small runs with water, willow bordered creek, open meadows, salt marshes, salt water lagoon and sandy beach.

The highlight of the trip was the spotting and observation on the lagoon of a Pomarine Jaeger. As there were only large birds such as gulls and pelicans present with the Jaeger no attacking of birds by the Jaeger was seen.

About sixty members and guests were present.

Seventy-five species of birds were noted as follows:

Common Loon	Green-winged Teal	Marsh Hawk
Pacific Loon	Cinnamon Teal	Duck Hawk

October Field Trip

To the delight of the 34 members and guests attending, Sunday, October 17th was one of those exquisite, summerlike days so typical of San Francisco fall weather.

The first stop in Golden Gate Park was near Pioneer Cabin to see Nuttall sparrows, a spotted towhee, robin, cedar wax-wings and others; from there, the group went to Stow Lake to see ducks, gulls, and grebes; then along South Drive to Mallard Lake, where lunch was eaten; next, by car, to Middle Lake where a Warbler was seen which could not with certainty be identified as either Audubon or Myrtle.

31 species were seen.

Eared Grebe	Western Gull	Cedar Waxwing
Pied-billed Grebe	California Gull	Hutton Vireo
Mallard	Anna Hummingbird	Audubon Warbler
Baldpate	Belted Kingfisher	English Sparrow
Pintail	Red-shafted Flicker	Brewer Blackbird
Canvas-back	Downy Woodpecker	Spotted Towhee
Ruddy Duck	Black Phoebe	Nuttall Sparrow
Hawk (unid.)	Chestnut-backed	Fox Sparrow
probably Cooper	Chickadee	Song Sparrow
California Quail	Bush-Tit
Coot	Creeper
Glaucous-winged Gull	Robin

High Lights of October and November Meetings

A letter of protest will go to the Government department responsible for the conditions at Tule Lake, which resulted in the destruction of many thousands of birds.

A protest was made concerning the tentative plan of the City of Berkeley to fill in the Berkeley Aquatic Park. Volunteers agreed to investigate the matter more fully.

The nominating committee for the coming annual election of officers will be; Mr. Walter Bradley, Mr. Arthur Bennett, Mrs. Enid Austin and Miss Jean Fay.

The attendance at the two meetings, was gratifying; 127 being present, among them Mr. and Mrs. Hudson of Honolulu, Mrs. Bosworth of Los Angeles and Mrs. Hood, President of the Los Angeles Audubon Society.

Mr. Howard Cogswell gave a most interesting talk on the "Birds of the Norden Area" explaining the terrain and bird habitats of that section, where the Audubon Camp was situated.

Dr. T. Eric Reynolds in his "Biographical Sketches" brought out the fact that very many of these eminent men lived just at the turn of the nineteenth century; and were professional men pursuing ornithology as an avocation.

HAZEL WALSH, Recording Secretary.
